En México la carencia de agua ha desatado guerras y destruido imperios. ¿Qué ocurriría si hoy la capital del país sufriera una nueva sequía de grandes magnitudes, tal y como ya aconteció a lo largo de nuestra dolorosa historia? En este vertiginoso thriller político y medioambientalista, Francisco Martín Moreno lanza un ultimátum a la ciudad más poblada del planeta y, a través de la tragedia humana, revela el grado de riesgo ecológico que corremos como ciudad y país. Pocos han podido imaginar los alcances de un apocalipsis hidráulico. La sed será la protagonista indiscutible de este siglo a lo largo y ancho del planeta.
