Pompoms are currently super-fashionable, whether adorning a headdress, swinging from a bag handle or dangling from a mobile or keyring. But why have a plain coloured pom-pom when you could have a tiny panda pom-pom or a watermelon slice pom-pom? With no fancy equipment needed - in fact, you can make do with rings cut from cardboard, four bulldog clips, a pencil and a pair of scissors, plus your yarn - these pom-poms are inexpensive to make for yourself or for others. With striking, graphic photography and clear step-by-step photographs to accompany all the instructions - and with each pom-pom taking no more than an hour to make - with Pompomania you can easily add a little pom-zazz to your world.
